Fogleman Swamps Foe Tom Gentry

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John Fogleman of West Memphis, an advocate of judicial reform, defeated T. J. Gentry of Little Rock Tuesday in a Democratic runoff primary for Position Six on the Arkansas Supreme Court. The near complete unofficial vote showed: Fogleman 218,876, Gentry 179,646.

Nomination meant election in this race because there is no Republican candidate for the $20,000-a-year office.

Gentry, led the ticket in the July 26 preferential primary which eliminated James Ross of Monticello from a three-man race for the court seat held by Jim Johnson until he resigned to run for governor.

Fogleman picked up endorsements from many lawyers, bar groups and from Churches United Against Gambling during the runoff. CUAG opposed Gentry because he supported a gambling amendment in 1964.

Fogleman, who lives at Marion and practices law at West Memphis, headed the Arkansas Judiciary Commission which worked for two years to produce proposals for judicial reform to submit to the 1965 legislature. Lawmakers adopted few of the proposals.

said, "Barbara (Mrs. Pryor) and I are deeply moved by the response my candidacy has received."

He said that if Arnold, Murphy, Honey and Jones will help him, he can defeat the Republican candidate.

Arnold congratulated Pryor by telephone when it became apparent that he was defeated.

Then he told newsmen, "I am not through with politics. I shall remain actively interested and, when the time comes, I shall again seek office."

Pryor emphasized his legislative record in his campaign. During six years in the Arkansas House, he sponsored several reform bills and voted for many others. He also voted against many bills sponsored by the administration of Gov. Orval Faubus.

Arnold contended that Pryor had a negative legislative record. He also charged late in campaign that Pryor had backing of labor elements outside Arkansas and had received funds from Jimmy Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union. Pryor hotly denied this.

Pryor, 31, is the son of a former Ouachita County sheriff and his interest in politics started early.

Graduated from the University of Arkansas in 1957, he founded a weekly newspaper at Camden. He sold the paper after he was elected to the legislature in 1960.

AGRICULTURE Secretary Orville Freeman insisted Aug. 5 that the farmer is not at fault for the steadily rising price of food. Freeman said that a "great gap" has developed between farm prices and food costs over the past 20 years and that farmers now actually get less than they did in 1947.

ry which put the wrong man temporarily into the runoff for lieutenant governor.

Informed about 10:30 p.m. that The Associated Press had declared him the winner with about four-fifths of the votes counted, Johnson said, "I'm complimented that the AP has that much confidence in me, but I believe I'll wait until the boxes come in."

Holt went home without conceding defeat. He hoped till the end that he would get strong support in city precincts to overcome Johnson's early lead in rural counties.

Johnson's margin stabilized in the vote range around midnight and stayed there until late returns from Pulaski County cut into his edge.

Near complete returns indicated that Johnson carried 51 counties and Holt 24. Some of Johnson's counties were in North Arkansas where Holt ran strongest in the preferential primary.

Holt said before he knew he was beaten that he would run for governor again. "I have made no political promises that would haunt me in the future," he said.

Running against six opponents in the first primary, Johnson called himself the voter's only choice for a change. He lambasted his opponents, the national administration and the Faubus administration in 90 stump speeches.

In the runoff, he changed his technique. He toned down all criticism except that of the federal government and began talking more about his programs which he called a contract with the electorate.

Holt, who refused to criticize anyone in the first primary, turned to blasting Johnson in the runoff, virtually ignoring his program.

Johnson promised a new look at industrial development, encouragement of truck farming to bolster a sagging cotton-based agriculture, salary increases for school teachers, increased benefits for welfare clients and a tax cut for all.

But Johnson aimed his campaign at the federal government from the start. He called on voters to tell Washington, by supporting him, that they were tired of a no-win war in Vietnam, federal controls desegregation guidelines, foreign aid and protection for civil rights demonstrators.

When he led a preferential primary ticket by 13,000 votes two weeks ago, he called his showing "a crack in the invincible armor of Lyndon B. Johnson that will be seen around the world."

Johnson bolted the Democratic Party two years ago to support Barry Goldwater, the Republican candidate, against since he emerged as a spokesman for segregationists during racial troubles of the 1950s.

Johnson ran for governor on a segregationist platform in 1956, but Faubus swamped him. Two years later, with segregationist sentiment crystallized in the wake of the Little Rock integration crisis, he was elected to the Supreme Court. His eight-year term would have expired this year if he had not run for governor.

Holt tried vainly to turn the Johnson tide by asserting that his election might damage Arkansas' profitable participation in federal aid programs. Holt pledged to continue the Faubus policy of friendly co-operation with Washington.

Holt also asserted that Johnson's election would spawn violence because of his racial views. He said Johnson and his "apostles of discord" would make Arkansas "a last-ditch battleground in a war against the 20th Century."

BILL LAWRENCE

The Session of the First Presbyterian Church has invited the Rev. William T. Lawrence to preach the sermon at the morning worship service this coming Sunday.

Mr. Lawrence and his wife, Carol will fly to Costa Rica later this month for a year's study of Spanish at a special Language School. Then they plan to go to Mexico where they will engage in Christian Education work.

The couple has spent the summer at Montreat, North Carolina along with about thirty other prospective missionaries in studying the missionary program of the Church. They were commissioned as missionaries at an impressive Service on August 3rd in Montreat.

William is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. L. T. Lawrence. He was graduated from Hope High School in 1958, from Austin Seminary in 1966.

and carried the theme: "Re-elect Bruce Bennett, Your Friend."

Bennett did not change his strategy in the runoff although he knew he was bucking an Arkansas election tradition which holds that an incumbent forced into a runoff is beaten.

This was not his first defeat. After two terms as attorney general, he left the office in 1960 to run unsuccessfully for governor against Gov. Orval Faubus.

He waited two years, then won his old office back.

Purcell criticized Bennett for official opinions which, Purcell said, were issued to satisfy political figures instead of spelling out the law.

To Bennett, Purcell said, a drive-in movie is an industry, salaries are not fiscal matters and residence is not where a man resides.

Bennett ran up a big lead in rural counties in the first primary but Purcell polled a heavy vote in Pulaski County and edged into a runoff in the last 200 or 300 boxes.

Bennett took a slight lead in early returns Tuesday night, but Purcell stayed on his heels, passed him when Pulaski boxes began reporting and stepped out of reach as the Pulaski count mounted.

British TV Details Sex Habits

LONDON (AP) — Executives of the British Broadcasting Corporation today ordered an investigation into a television program which showed a young couple in bed discussing their sex lives.

Hundreds of viewers telephoned complaints about the 45-minute dialogue. Reviewers called it the frankest, most intimate TV program ever shown in Britain.

The BBC had billed the documentary drama, "Exit 19," as an inquiry to discover "if in the age of space ships the British are still living in the steamship age when it comes to sex and ethics."

The couple talked in detail about their sexual habits and their attitudes toward homosexuality, incest and premarital love.

Philip Saville, who wrote and directed Exit 19, avoided professional actors for the roles of the man and the girl, who in the script were engaged.

Instead he picked Jack Bond, 28, a film editor, and Maureen Saffhill, 21, an art student.

Saville said he interviewed 120 girls for the part and chose Maureen, a pretty blonde, because "she is a really modern girl — absolutely free in her attitudes."

Complaints from viewers began coming in after the program's opening sequence showing the couple in bed, with the girl apparently naked.

The dialogue included such exchanges as: Jack: "When did you first make love?"

Maureen: "At 17."

Jack: "Did you enjoy it?"

Maureen: "Not very much."

Saville supplied the questions. The couple gave their own answers.

"Miss Saffhill and I met for the first time in the studio," Bond told a newsmen.

"Our orders were to add answers to certain questions, even if they took us back."

"Miss Saffhill was obviously startled by some of the questions, because we had no idea what they would be."

"In fact I gave truthful answers, even though it was a very unusual experience to be questioned in this way. We recorded our answers in different studios."

BBC officials said the program was taped 10 months ago but Kenneth Adam, program controller, did not agree until recently to let it be shown. It was transmitted late Monday.

The investigation will be held next week by the BBC's Board of Management since Sir Hugh Greene, director-general, is on vacation. Despite periodic demands for censorship of the state-supported BBC, the government has consistently refused to interfere.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By MICHAEL SHORT HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Giovanna Ralli is a small, striking, dark-haired Italian reminiscent of Sophia Loren and Natalie Wood.

She loves to work, and work, and work.

Audiences have seen her in only one American movie, "What Did You Do in the War, Daddy?" They'll see more soon. Her contracts call for at least seven more films — and she wouldn't object to doing them all without a break.

Miss Ralli spent much of a recent 12-hour working day sweltering in a car before cameras at Paramount filming a scene that will consume but a few seconds on screen.

The sequence for "The Caper of the Golden Bulls" shows a car being searched at the border between Gibraltar and Spain. The sun, at least, was authentic — hot as Spain's.

Miss Ralli brushed back her hair with her hand, licked her lips, tugged at her gloves and waited placidly for technicians to prepare for shooting. Movie lights added to the sun's glare. A few minutes later a rehearsal and a take went satisfactorily.

Her shooting over for awhile, Miss Ralli jumped out of the car and walked away as if grilling under the sun were unimaginably entertaining.

"Caper," a comedy-thriller about a jewel robbery at the Pamplona festival in Spain, is the latest of Miss Ralli's more than 30 films since she became an actress at 13. She is now in her mid-20s. When asked why, though she has worked hard at her career for half her life, she almost never takes a vacation, rarely relaxes for more than a weekend, she smiled and replied: "I prefer work."

She has been an established actress in Italy for years. In 1965 she received the Italian film critics' Silver Ribbon as the best actress for Carlo Sposito's "L'Allegria."

LBJ Seeking Power to Quell Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears likely to give President Johnson only token support in providing the tools he says are needed to correct conditions he blames for racial rioting.

Johnson told a news conference Tuesday he will be ready with a good many such recommendations for the Congress which meets next January. He called for action this year on teacher corps, rent supplement and demonstration cities bills.

Opposition to the latter measures in Congress is so strong that administration leaders have been trying desperately to compromise to get even token approval of the programs involved.

The subject of race riots drew comment Tuesday night from Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who said the United States as a government has not "made the kind of commitment necessary to deal with problems of the ghetto."

Speaking on a WCBS television documentary in New York, Kennedy said it seems almost as if "we are waiting for even a greater catastrophe before we are willing to take the step."

Here is where the three measures mentioned by Johnson now stand on the legislative ladder:

The House already has voted against providing any funds in the current fiscal year for the program of enlisting teachers — to be paid by the federal government — for work in slum areas.

Efforts are under way in the Senate to rescue the $31.7 million appropriation. But even if these are successful the House may refuse to go along.

The President's request for $35 million to supplement rent payments so that low income families can have adequate housing was cut by the House to $20 million.

Travel—To a question whether he is thinking of any expedition outside the country, possibly to Australia, Johnson said there are always possibilities of his traveling, but he has no plans for anything of that nature now.

Airline Strike—The President said he still hopes for a negotiated agreement between the machinists union and five major struck airlines. He declined to get into the question of emergency procedures or congressional action.

On the latter, the President said that "we did not recommend legislation." It is a matter for Congress to decide, he said. The President said the situation is just as Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has described it. Wirtz has contended consistently that there is no national emergency involved in the strike.

Johnson mentioned again that he would like to go to a projected Western Hemisphere summit session if planning and preparations reach the point of indicating one would be fruitful.

Johnson was asked what he could say in the way of updating the military situation in Viet Nam since there were some pretty severe losses of aircraft and heavy fighting over the weekend.

Johnson said plane and helicopter losses have been below advance estimates. Now and then, he said, we have had a bad day. Weather, good luck on the part of the enemy and bad luck on our part and lots of other things enter into that, he said.

Monday there were widely circulated reports from Saigon that Defense Department studies indicate the Vietnamese war might run on five to eight years and require up to 750,000 men—as compared with nearly 300,000 now there.

The Pentagon put out a denial. Johnson said he had checked the matter out with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and said the secretary told him Monday night the Defense Department was unaware of any studies.

Arraignment Is Postponed

MARION, Ind. (AP)—A circuit court judge postponed Monday until Sept. 8 arraignment of Mrs. Edith Louise Schmidt, 25, of Marion.

Mrs. Schmidt and Glenn Stewart, 30, also of Marion, have been charged with first-degree murder in the mutilation slaying of her husband, Larry, 30.

Mrs. Schmidt's attorney asked for more time to study her statements to police and other documents in the case. Stewart, arrested near Arkadelphia, Ark., is to be tried separately Sept. 12.

Senators Vote Differently

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas Sens. J. William Fulbright and John L. McClellan canceled each others votes Monday night as the Senate passed 53-31 the unemployment insurance bill setting federal standards for states.

McClellan voted against the bill and Fulbright voted for it.

Prospect of Continued Inflation

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen as well as housewives face the likelihood of further inflation.

And such slowing in the upward pace of the economy as may be in prospect isn't likely to determine the continuing rise of prices in many lines. These range from the price of new cars to the raw materials that go into them, from the prices of services the family expects and needs to the cost of labor.

The economy has boomed close to the limits of its present resources and production facilities. And the inflationary pressure is mounting.

So far, the curbs on the economy's booming rise have been mainly of two sorts: monetary restraints that make credit tighter and interest rates higher, and government guidelines that tried persuasion to hold down price and wage increases that couldn't be matched by increased efficiency and productivity.

But the monetary restraints, while clipping some industries such as home building, and deterring some consumer buying

JEVENILE ADULTS MAKE LIFE MISERABLE

Dear Helen: We had to wait most of our lives to own a home we could afford. This is a supposedly good neighborhood, yet from the night we moved in, we have been harassed, intimidated and shunned.

It started with doorbell ringing at 3 a.m.; then knocking at our windows, broken locks and an attempt to break down our porch. They hit our house with snowballs in winter and stones of big ticket items such as new cars, have also resulted in higher costs of doing business — and therefore of an even greater urge to raise the prices of the goods and services involved.

And the government's voluntary guidelines have been effective largely in cases where the administration held a whiphand. The price of aluminum was held down because the government had huge defense stockpiles of surplus metal with which it could threaten to flood the market. In the great majority of cases, industrial prices — and wage scales — have gone up, almost unnoticed.

Except by the consumer. He now is very aware of the rising cost of living.

The cost of many services has been going up steadily right along. It took a big jump in food prices early in the year, and again in midsummer, to bring the housewife to the loudly protesting stage.

Her bills had suddenly started rising much faster than her husband's pay check. It, in fact, had been clipped a bit, first by higher Social Security taxes, and then by larger withholding for federal income taxes. And in many cases the income-clipping also extended to higher state and local taxes.

In summer. Our doorbell was vandalized, the cement steps to the front walk smashed.

We are wakened at 4 a.m. by neighbors loudly dumping heavy trash in the alley. Adol' footprints in the snow under our windows showed we'd had prowlers in the night.

They deliberately cut across our lawn, wearing a path bare. In desperation we put up a fence. It was torn down in less than a week.

We nearly stood on our heads to be friendly when we came here, but nothing helped. We are NOT of a minority race, but maybe we're of a minority age, as sometimes age prejudice is as vicious as race prejudice.

We've tried to reason out the cause and can only think that the former occupant of the house was mad that the owners sold it and "did him out of" a home to rent. Possibly he has spread rumors and started vandalism so that we will move and he can rent it again. I can't find out — no one speaks.

We lived long years in our former home without trouble, but here we offered friendship and got brickbats. What can we do? — Hurt

Dear Hurt: I can't believe a whole neighborhood would be vicious, so I'm inclined to agree this may be the work of one person who wants you out of the house. Ask police protection.

And ask a few neighbors in for tea. Even though they've heard bad things about you, they will probably come out of curiosity. Then perhaps you can get to the bottom of all this discrimination. — H.

Show appreciation for the thoughtfulness of a gift, even if it isn't suitable.

LETTER FROM A HAPPY WIFE

Dear Helen: You get so many letters from miserable husbands and wives I thought you might like to hear from a couple who has never had an unhappy married moment.

When my husband and I got married we were not in love, in the "Hollywood" way. We were, therefore, sane enough to realize that basic ideals and beliefs must be compatible to make for happiness.

We are now deeply in love, and our love grows every year. We have a sunny, smiling daughter, perhaps because she has never known an atmosphere other than one of laughter and affection.

We thank God every day for our blessings, and only wish the couples who complain to you so much had not been blinded by so-called "romance", or would realize that nothing in the world is worth hurting the person you love.

Moral: Marry with open eyes and keep them half-shut afterwards. — R. M.

Dear R: So nice to meet you! Please write again. Letters like yours recharge a columnist's batteries. — H.

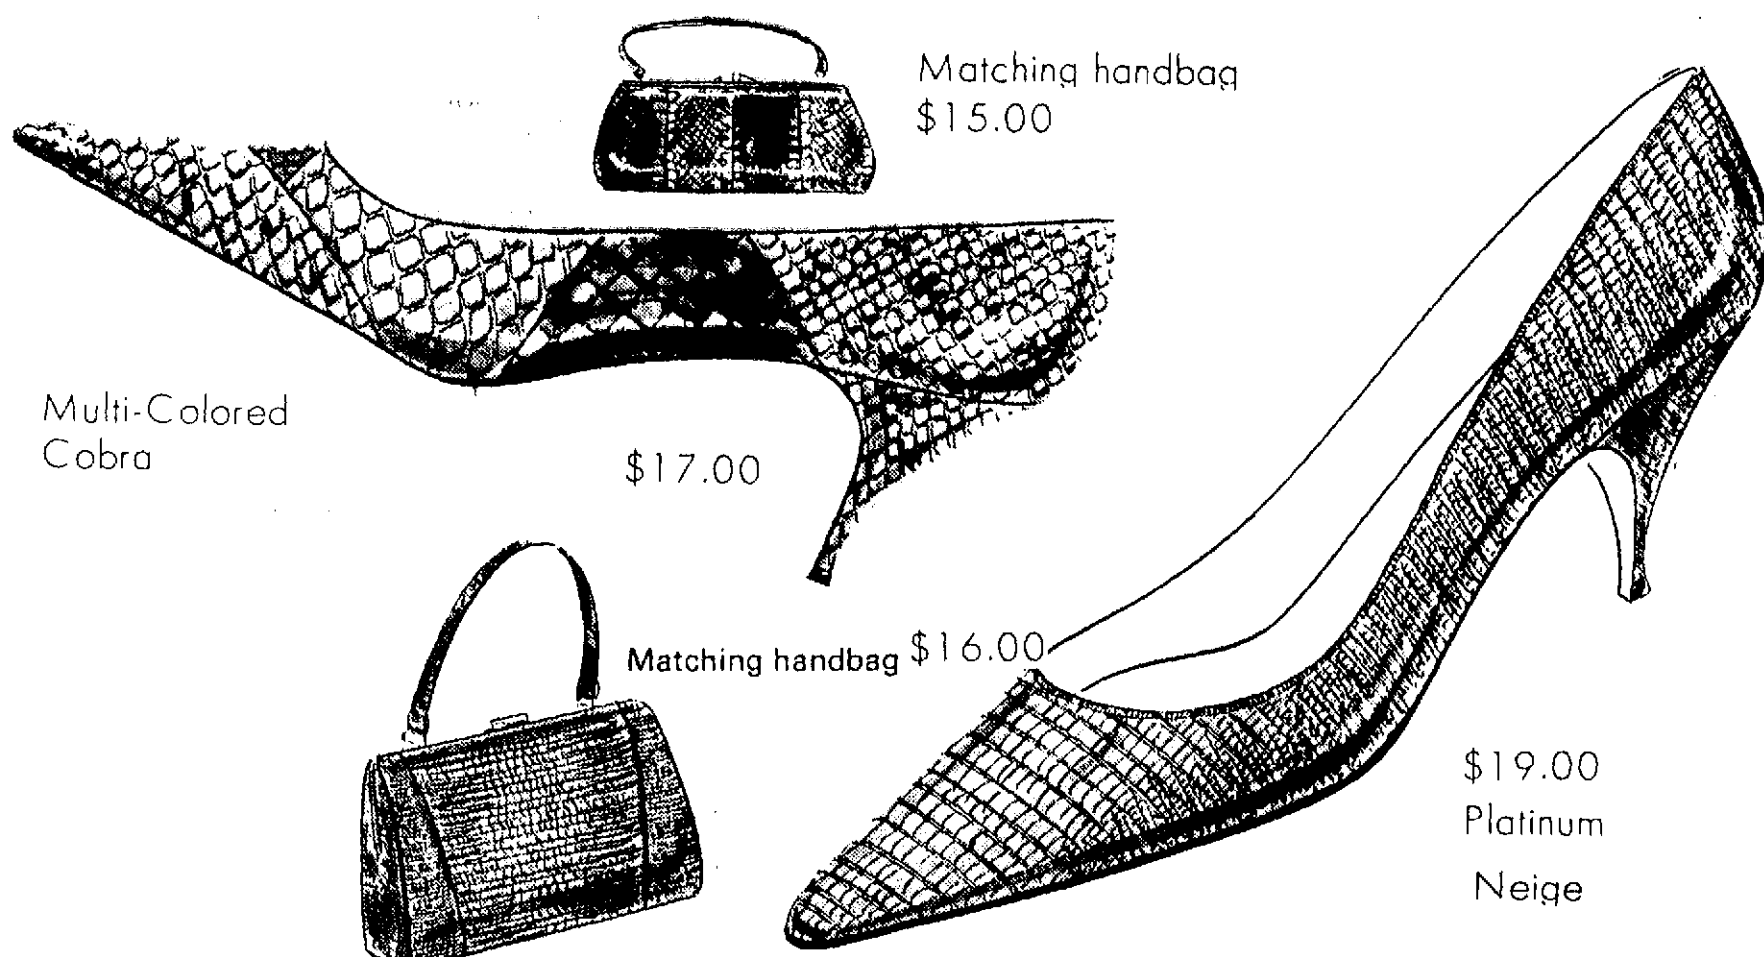

Dear Helen: I've walked my legs off trying to get a job. They always ask, "Are you experienced?" How do you get experienced if no one will hire you? Where can I go? — High School Graduate in California.

portunity Center at your State Employment Service. — H.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG
Many Heart Murmurs Are of No Consequence
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—After my doctor examined me he said, "If you ever have to call a doctor who doesn't know you, don't be frightened if he mentions a heart murmur." He says I have a piston murmur. What type is that?
A—Piston murmur is not a standard medical term but your doctor's advice is excellent. Many murmurs are of no consequence and yet may be a source of unnecessary worry. When a heart disease is present other findings are of much greater importance.

Q—What is the significance, cause and effect of a very slow pulse? Is there any remedy for it?
A—A pulse rate may be as low as 30 per minute and be of no significance so long as there is no evidence of heart block (interference with the conduction of nervous stimulation within the heart); increased pressure inside the skull due to hemorrhage, tumor or brain abscess; poisoning with digitalis, salicylates or other drugs; or markedly low activity of the thyroid (myxedema). If any treatment is required it could consist of removing the cause.

Q—Is there any first aid treatment for heart attacks? A—Anyone who is subject to coronary heart attacks or Q—I have had pericarditis twice. What causes it? How serious is it? How can a person avoid recurrences?

A—Inflammation of the membrane that surrounds the heart is usually caused by an infection with the streptococcus or staphylococcus. Other causes include tuberculosis, uremia, cancer and direct injury. The disease may be mild or severe depending on a variety of factors. You can best avoid recurrences by observing the rules of hygiene and keeping as physically fit as possible.

Q—I stay hungry all the time no matter how much I eat. As a result I am gaining weight. What could cause this and what do you advise?
A—Possible causes are dia-

Oswald brings up a hand that Jim played with him recently as the subject of today's discussion.

He says: "West's jump to four hearts crowded me. I might have doubled him but instead, I took a chance and raised you to game. The game contract was reasonable. You had one loser in hearts and two apparent losers in clubs so if you could pick up the queen of diamonds your contract would be home. Will you describe how you made the hand in spite of the fact that the diamond queen could not be picked up?"

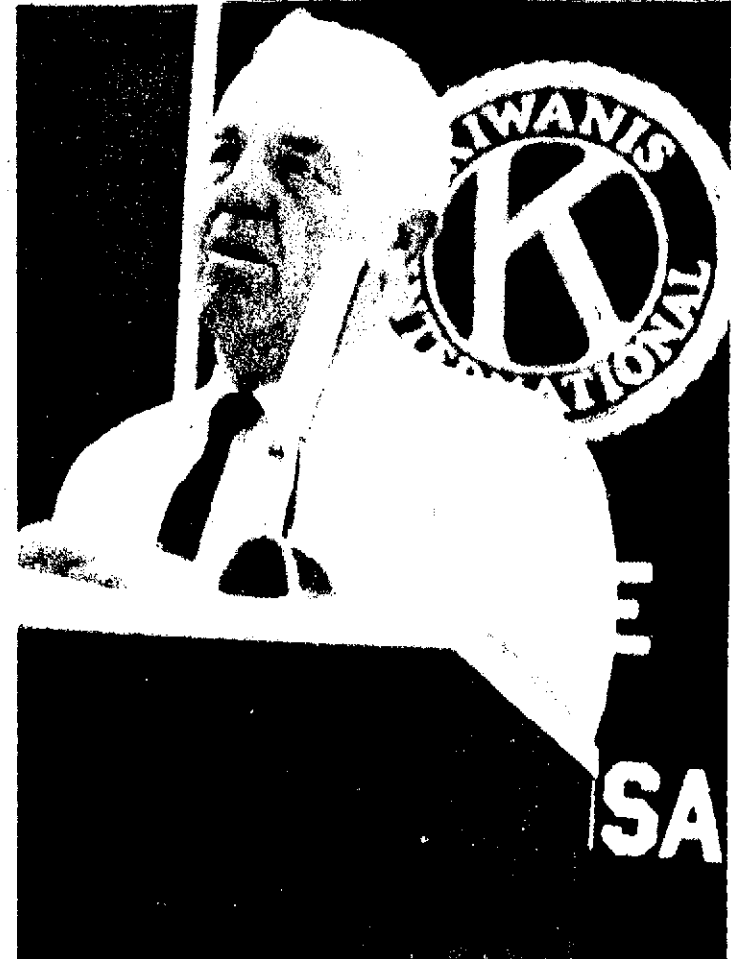

Jim: "East and West co-operated with me beautifully. East played the king of hearts under his partner's ace. This play was merely a strong request to partner to play another heart but for some reason or other West interpreted it as a suit preference signal for a diamond lead. West shifted to the six of diamonds. I wasn't at all happy about this shift. Surely West would not be leading away from the queen so the diamond finesse was not going to work for me. I had to find another way to make my contract. I won with the king, drew trumps with three leads, played a low club and ducked in dummy. East won the trick and led the suit back. This time I took the trick and cashed the ace of diamonds. Then I threw East in with the queen of diamonds. Fortunately he had started with only two clubs so he was down to hearts and had to lead that suit. I ruffed in my hand and discarded dummy's last club."

Oswald: "You were lucky to catch East with only two clubs but once West shifted to diamonds at trick two you had taken the only line of play that could possibly work for you. A poor chance is a lot better than no chance at all."

Mr. Johnson Is Soberly Puzzled

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is so puzzled. This is what came through his rather relaxed news conference Tuesday.
He would like to find something better than he has now for trying to keep prices and wages in line although what he has now has had holes kicked in it.
Meanwhile, having nothing better, he's holding on to what he has.
And what he has, and has had for years, is a so-called and now out-of-date guideline: A voluntary rule that wages should not go up more than 3.2 per cent — representing the annual increase in productivity. Under this formula, industry is expected to maintain relatively stable prices.
Trying to hold on to it means he hasn't had new ideas on it since the steel companies last week ignored his pleas and raised prices and the airline machinists rejected his plea to control the wage agreement he approved. The strikers continued their walkout, now over a month old.
Johnson proudly told newsmen at his conference that the United States is better off than any other big country in fighting inflation, saying: "We have the best stabilization record of any industrial nation in the world."
But when a reporter reminded him that because of inflation per capita buying power in 1976 prices is actually down from $2,287 to $2,277, Johnson said he didn't know about those figures although he cited a list of other figures to show how other nations had more inflation.
He admitted his 3.2 per cent guideline had been exceeded in some cases. And he admitted no effort will be made in all cases to keep annual wage increases to 3.2 per cent.

This can be interpreted as meaning wage and price increases will be all over the lot, that the 3.2 per cent guideline doesn't and won't mean much if anything, and that a new one will have to be found.
"We have nothing better to suggest at the moment," Johnson said.
It doesn't need a prophet to foresee that unions and businessmen are not going to sit still to accept the guideline when they see their neighbors being allowed to do better.
For instance, take the airlines dispute where Johnson approved the wage agreement which the airlines and the machinists' negotiators agreed to although the rank-and-file machinists turned it down.
This would have given the machinists an increase figured at 6 to 7 per cent with fringe benefits, which with Johnson's consent broke the very 3.2 per cent guideline he wanted others to accept.
And other businesses, after seeing the steel industry kick over the traces and even ignore the administration's plea to control the wage agreement he approved, the strikers continued their walkout, now over a month old.

In This Cluttered World There Are Many Things to Do

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — There are too many things to do in this cluttered world.
Ever sit down and catalog the things you might like to have gotten done but didn't because you were simply too busy doing something else?
Here is a list of unachieved daydreams by one man who, well past life's halfway mark, is amazed to discover he has never—
Eaten locusts preserved in honey, chocolate-covered ants, or a barbecued aardvark.
Had a tete-a-tete with a two-headed girl.
Spent an evening in a Turkish harem.
Run short of hot water while taking a bath in Buckingham Palace.
Been held for ransom by Sicilian bandits, suffered a broken head in a native riot, or got caught in a subway turnstile.
Ridden the rods of a freight train, or ridden shotgun on a stagecoach.
Gotten looped in Chicago's Loop.
Received a blood transfusion, or been invited to dinner by a friendly banker.
Pawned anything.
Rustled a steer, slain an elephant for his turks, or married a rich girl for her money.
Made love in a canoe, a sampan, or a royal barge on the Nile.
Read "Les Miserables," "The Last Days of Pompeii," or any novel written by Bertha M. Clay or Jean-Paul Sartre.
Trampled grapes with bare-foot girls in an Italian vineyard.
Acquired a black eye as the result of asking a Scotsman what he wore under his kilt.
Knocked over a stack of canned dog food in a supermarket.
Been brave enough to charge an enemy machine gun post, or order hash in a restaurant on Monday.
Been made a Kentucky colonel, awarded an honorary degree by Harvard, or appeared as a mystery guest on the "What's My Line?" television show.
Required the services either of a stomach pump or a psychiatrist.
Seen a purple cow or a flying saucer.
Sounds rather like a misspent life, doesn't it? When a fellow gets right down to it, it's pretty hard sometimes for him to figure out just what he has done with all his time on earth.

"If it is killed, it will be by the Republicans," said Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and the bill's chief sponsor. "I don't see how, in an election year, the Republicans can afford to let that happen. In any case the monkey is now on the Senate's back."
The House-passed bill would put the government into new areas in the civil rights struggle. Besides seeking to improve housing opportunities for Negroes it would classify as federal crimes a new series of offenses involving racial violence.
On one side, the federal government could move against anyone who used force or violence against a Negro or civil rights worker lawfully engaged in any activity sanctioned by federal law.
And other businesses, after seeing the steel industry kick over the traces and even ignore the administration's plea to control the wage agreement he approved, the strikers continued their walkout, now over a month old.

Negroes and Reds Blamed for Rioting

By ROBERT L. SHAFFER
CLEVELAND (AP) — A grand jury report says black nationalists and Communist youth leaders worked together to incite last month's rioting in the Hough area Negro slum.
A 17-page report issued Tuesday night by the Cuyahoga County grand jury said the outbreak was "organized, precipitated and exploited by a relatively small group of trained and disciplined professionals at this business."
"They were aided and abetted by misguided people of all ages and colors, many of whom are avowed believers in violence and extremism, and some of whom also are either members of or officers in the Communist party," the report said.
The rioting, which broke out July 18, was followed by widespread fire bombing, looting and vandalism.
Four Negroes died of gunshot wounds and damage to property was estimated at more than $500,000. Some 2,000 Ohio National Guardsmen were called in and guard units stayed in the area for 12 days.
Lewis G. Robinson, founder of the JFK (John Freedom Kennedy) House for young people was named by the grand jury as one of the "principal and recurring personalities in the chain of events which preceded" the Hough outbursts.
Jurors reported finding evidence that instructions were given boys at the JFK House "in the use of molotov cocktails (fire bombs) and how and when to throw them to obtain maximum effect."
The report identified Robinson as holding membership in several "black nationalist clubs" and said evidence showed he "pledged reciprocal support to and with the Communist party of Ohio."
MORE MEN
000 seamen offshore and at least 25,000 military personnel spread over bases, supply complexes and other facilities in Guam, Thailand, the Philippines and Okinawa.
Reports persist, and are not officially denied, that by the end of this year American troops within Viet Nam will total about 400,000 — some 110,000 greater than at present.
From President Johnson on down, various leaders have talked of bolstering American forces as a means of trying to pressure Communists to negotiate a settlement of the conflict.
"More manpower will be required," President Johnson told a news conference July 20. "We shall send Gen. Westmoreland such men as he shall require and request."
Gen. William C. Westmoreland is U.S. commander in Viet Nam.
Today, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., told The Associated Press the force "necessary to do the job on the ground" could eventually run as high as 500,000 to 600,000.
"It's very apparent we're going to need more men there," Stennis, chairman of a Defense subcommittee, said. He predicted in January U.S. troops in Viet Nam would hit 400,000 by the end of this year.
One Pentagon official, who must remain unnamed, estimated the actual 1966 year-end strength in Viet Nam probably will be nearer 375,000. But he said defense officials have talked of a 450,000-man ground force to be available within coming months.
The official emphasized that such discussions center around capability and that at this point there has been no firm decision to deploy men in such numbers.
The whole question of the spiraling U.S. buildup drew fresh attention this week with word of two studies casting doubt on the adequacy, over the long run, of the present level of American forces in Viet Nam.
About the same time, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was saying in Saigon after meeting with top military officials he felt a half million men would be needed to win the war.
Speculation immediately arose that Nixon was reflecting the view of Westmoreland.
The two studies — whose existence coincidentally became known in Saigon — attracted sudden official downgrading from the Pentagon in Washington.

"Of course, your electric service bills are always higher during summer months because almost half of your total annual usage occurs during June through September. Retirement By Choice, Not Force

While business and political leaders complain about a power shortage, Congr. Charles E. Bennett, speaking in Jacksonville the other day, said that retirement should generally be by choice and not by compulsion.

Many of those who are able to work need to work and want modern methods of business and industry deny them this interest.

Modern methods of government also make it difficult not only for those over 65 to get a job, but also for many of those who are reaching what should be the prime of their life at 45.

There are about 19 million people in this country who are over 65 years of age. As longevity for the average man increases, this figure is likely to grow to 25 or 30 million within a few years.

Whether life will be worth living for them without something constructive to do is a problem which church, civic and political leaders should be trying to decide. — Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel.

A Kind Word For The Victims?

For thinking first of the rights of the accused no one can differ seriously in principle with the Supreme Court.

No one should be convicted and sentenced except on the most scrupulous regard for his constitutional liberties, even to the dotting of the last "i" and the crossing of the final "t." And if this makes the job of the police more difficult, as it undoubtedly does, the police will simply have to learn more about the preparation of their cases.

But when the Supreme Court has said all it wants to say on this subject, we hope it will turn its attention about 180 degrees and have something solicitous to say about the rights of the victims. These are the people who are maimed, murdered, raped, robbed, kidnapped in every increasing numbers and without the least respect for their constitutional rights.

Almost no one in judicial authority has much to say about these people who pay the price of crime unlimited, but it is well established in constitutional law that they have some rights, too, foremost among them the right to the safety of their persons and the security of their property. — Charleston (W.Va.) Daily Mail.

Laughing at Whom?

The flood of new postage stamps now brings us a five-center with a laughing clown's face. Ostensibly the stamp commemorates the circus as an institution, but some of us can't help wondering if that clown isn't laughing because he's comparing the postmark with the day of delivery. — Augusta (Ga.) ## Rights Bill Fight Shifts to Senate

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight over a federal open housing law shifted to the Senate today after House passage of the 1966 civil rights bill with the controversial provision intact.

The bill, which would arm the federal government with broad new powers to protect Negroes' rights, was passed 259 to 157 Tuesday night but it was a fight to the finish for the housing provision.

Republican leaders made a last ditch effort to kill the proposed ban on racial discrimination by anyone in the housing business, but failed by a vote of 222 to 190.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has called the provision totally unacceptable to him. There are grave doubts it can pass the Senate without his support.

Despite this, the bill's House backers and civil rights groups expressed cautious optimism that it would win final approval.

Odom Winner; AP News Digest

Hempstead County voters went to the polls yesterday and followed the statewide trend, voting against machine-tied candidates and ousting everybody in office. Incumbents not forced into a runoff two weeks ago appeared to be lucky.

In the only local race newcomer to politics, Finis Odom, ousted incumbent Orle O. Byers for county judge. The vote was 2,900 to 2,622. Odom took a slim lead in the early boxes and was never behind.

Statewide, Hempstead voters didn't lose a candidate. Native son, James H. Pilkinton, outgained his opponent Claude Carpenter, 4,084 to 1,245.

In the race for governor it was Jim Johnson with 3,128 to 2,361 for Frank Holt.

For Attorney General Joe Purcell had nearly a 900 vote margin over Bruce Bennett, 3,108 to 2,237.

John A. Fogleman polled a 1,000 vote majority over Tom Gentry, the count being 3,136 to 1,862.

David Pryor Takes Seat in Congress

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—David Pryor, a reform-minded state legislator, won the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 4th District by a lopsided margin over Richard Arnold of Texarkana in Tuesday's runoff.

But when the Supreme Court has said all it wants to say on this subject, we hope it will turn its attention about 180 degrees and have something solicitous to say about the rights of the victims. These are the people who are maimed, murdered, raped, robbed, kidnapped in every increasing numbers and without the least respect for their constitutional rights.

Daily Mail.

The near complete unofficial count showed: Pryor 72,863, Arnold 39,956.

Pryor won a special primary for the same congressional seat by a similar margin.

The special primary victory qualified him to oppose Republican Lynn Lowe in a special election in September to fill the unexpired term of Rep. Oren Harris.

He will then oppose Lowe in November for a full two-year term.

It was a long campaign for the runoff candidates and for the three men, Dean Murphy of Texarkana, John Harris Jones of Pine Bluff and Charles Honey of Prescott, who were eliminated in the July 26 preferential primary.

All except Jones had been campaigning since late last year when it became known that Harris would resign to become a federal judge. Harris left office Feb. 2.

A special primary originally was set March 15, but it was voided by a suit filed because the Democratic State Committee had scheduled it in the 28 counties of the old 4th District.

Pulaski Chancellor Murray Reed held that the election should be in the 20 counties of the district as reorganized in 1965. The committee then decided to set the special primary to coincide with the regular primary.

Murphy endorsed Pryor in the runoff. Honey and Jones did not take a position.

Pryor said he owed his victory to hundreds of volunteer workers who put in thousands of hours for him.

"Never in the history of Arkansas politics has one man owed so much to so many," he

Civilians Killed in War Mixup

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Fifteen South Vietnamese civilians were killed and 182 wounded when two U.S. Air Force jets bombed and strafed a village in the Mekong Delta, an Air Force spokesman announced today.

He attributed the error to the local Vietnamese province chief who picked the target.

The attack took place Tuesday night eight miles from Can Tho, the largest town in the Mekong Delta. The F100 Super Sabre jets hit the village with bombs and 20mm cannon fire.

A U.S. spokesman said the error was discovered a few hours after it happened and aid was sent from Can Tho. He said all the wounded were evacuated from the area by 3 a.m., some seven hours after the bombing, by trucks and naval craft.

In the Central Highlands, an outnumbered company of the Korean Tiger Division decimated about 600 men in a bitter all-night battle lit by flares from circling American planes.

The Koreans killed 170 Red soldiers and held the jungle battlefield when dawn came, raking in an unusually high total of 78 Communist weapons.

The battle flared west of Pleiku seven miles from the Cambodian border in an area where three North Vietnamese regiments are reported by intelligence.

While the Koreans held the field, American warplanes swept in with rockets and bombs.

More Men Will Be Sent to Viet Nam

EDITOR'S NOTE — President Johnson says more U.S. fighting men will be required in Viet Nam — and more will be sent. Where does the troop buildup stand now? And most important, where is it headed? By BOB HORTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Signs mount that the United States may have a Korean-sized war on its hands in Viet Nam around Christmas.

This would mean an American commitment of about 470,000 men in Southeast Asia, the peak level of U.S. forces used directly and in support of Korean operations in 1953.

Present U.S. strength in activity tied to the Viet Nam war is estimated at 375,000, including 290,000 troops in Viet Nam, 60,

Jim Johnson and James Pilkinton Are Nominated

Pilkinton Solid Choice for Lt. Gov.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James Pilkinton of Hope, almost eliminated from the runoff by a counting error, had the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor today.

The 52-year-old former chancery judge defeated Claude Carpenter of Little Rock by a solid margin in Tuesday's primary and prepared to turn his attention toward Republican Maurice (Footsie) Britt, who will be his opponent in November.

The vote with 2,620 of 2,661 boxes: Pilkinton 219,054, Carpenter 159,339.

Pilkinton did not know he was in the runoff until last Friday and he probably could not have won without the help of Joe Basore of Cherokee Village, the man he replaced on the ballot.

Basore, who had been campaigning against Carpenter for a week in the belief that he had made the runoff, turned his campaign organization over to the judge and worked vigorously in his behalf.

The unofficial tabulation of the vote from the July 26 preferential primary placed Basore in the runoff with Carpenter.

Pilkinton picked up about 1,000 votes in the official certification from Clark County and edged past Basore. The error was discovered after Pilkinton had gone on television to endorse Basore on Thursday night.

Both Pilkinton and Basore criticized Carpenter, 42, for his long association with Gov. Orval Faubus and charged that Carpenter had machine backing.

Pilkinton and Basore had filed a suit to void results of the election because of the confusion.

Carpenter, whose supporters believed the confusion reacted against him, intervened in the suit.

Purcell Ousts Incumbent B. Bennett

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Joe Purcell, a new face in statewide politics, brushed veteran officeholder Bruce Bennett aside Tuesday in the Democratic runoff primary for attorney general.

Purcell, former city attorney and municipal judge at Benton, said his victory "re-establishes everyone's faith in politics as the method of electing our public officials."

Bennett, who was seeking a fifth term, could not be reached for comment on his defeat. He missed a majority in the preferential primary by only 3,000 votes.

The near complete unofficial count from the runoff showed: Purcell 210,683, Bennett 183,617. Purcell will face Republican Jerry K. Thomasson of Arkadelphia in the November general election.

The 43-year-old Democratic nominee was virtually unknown outside of Benton when he appeared at the secretary of state's office in April to file against Bennett.

He said he wanted to restore dignity to the attorney general's office and he kept campaign pressure on Bennett all the way.

Bennett ignored both Purcell and Kenneth Coffelt, his other opponent in the preferential primary. His campaign material featured his experience

Must Face Rockefeller in November

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jim Johnson, an outspoken segregationist and unrelenting critic of the federal government, won the Democratic nomination for governor in a runoff primary Tuesday.

The 41-year-old former state Supreme Court justice, who compares his conservative views to those of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, defeated Frank Holt, 55, in a campaign in which the federal-state relationship was a prime issue.

Johnson is still a long step away from the governor's chair. Ready to challenge him in November is Republican Winthrop Rockefeller, who has been a new life into the Arkansas GOP during the last six years.

Rockefeller plans to open his campaign headquarters today while Johnson is still sagging from an exhausting two-month primary race.

The near complete unofficial vote count (2,623 of 2,648 precincts) showed: Johnson 209,146, Holt 194,643.

Holt, a former colleague of Johnson on the Supreme Court, carried the burden of a machine label through the campaign.

He denied Johnson's charges that he was sponsored by the political organization that backed Gov. Orval Faubus for years, but he was unable to overcome the allegation.

Faubus, retiring after 12 years in office, did not back either candidate in the primary, although Johnson criticized his administration while Holt did not. Faubus has pledged to help the primary winner against Rockefeller.

Johnson refused to claim victory even though he was a clear winner in the unofficial count. "I won't feel confident until the votes are certified in view of what happened in the past few weeks," he said.

He was talking about an error in the unofficial count from the July 26 preferential primary.
